Makes 2 1/2 Brick Oval on the First Lap at Speed of 98.39 Miles an Hour

FIRST CAR WRECKED

Driver Turns Over on Turn on Speedway, Car Wrecked, But He Escapes Injury.

Speedway, Indianapolis, May 30.—Twenty-two flying little speedsters dashed away on the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway promptly at 10 a. m. today. As the racers got away to a flying start they were given thunders of cheers from the solidly packed stands.

Jimmy Murphy at 10 miles led the field driving at an average of 98.73 miles an hour. Benny Hill and Harry Hartz were in second and third positions.

It was announced that Joe Boyer in winning the first lap established a record for the first 2 1/2 miles in any race on the local track, his average being 98.39 miles per hour.

Ernie Ansterberg, an Indianapolis driver, was in the first accident when his car turned over on the backstretch during the first lap. He was not seriously injured, but his car was out of the contest.

Murphy Leads at 50

At 50 miles Murphy held the lead, trailed closely by Cooper and Hill in second and third places, Hartz in fourth place and Milton fifth. Murphy's time was 39:29:12, an average of 98.89 miles per hour.

Leads At 100 Miles

Murphy held his lead at 100 miles but tearing along a few seconds behind him were Cooper and Hill in second and third positions. Murphy negotiated the century mark in 1:01:00:49, an average of 98.35 miles an hour.

Following the three leaders in order were Milton, Ira Vail, Eddie Hearne, Jules Ellingboe, Antoine Mourrie and Peter Depolo. The first 100 miles was nearly two miles an hour faster than last year.

Indianapolis, May 30 (By the A. P.).—Twenty odd crack automobile race drivers were ready for the starting bomb that would send away at 10 a. m. today in the twelfth renewal of the annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

To the first 100 miles the 200 laps over the 2 1/2 brick oval will be awarded cash prizes aggregating $50,000 of which $20,000 is bestowed upon the winner. A consolation $10,000 will be divided among those who start but fail to finish the race.

The race, now established as the classic of automobile contests, has attracted veteran drivers who have won fame in the past as well as some who have yet to enter their wheels on roadway tracks.

Ford Is Referee

Henry Ford, motor magnate, will be the referee. This office entails the responsibility of calling off the track dogs and of ordering the withdrawal of cars that appear to be in such advanced mechanical condition as to be a menace to other contestants.

The racing cars, babish in appearance, are all specially designed for speed. The tiny motors, about two-thirds the size of power-plant installed in ordinary passenger automobiles, possess tremendous energy capable of driving the slim machines in which they are mounted at better than 100 miles an hour. Throngs attracted to the spectacle were on their way to the track early. Electric railways and street cars deposited thousands at the gates while other thousands went in cars.

Prospective winners was an absorbing topic.

HAVE FINE WEATHER

Indianapolis, May 30 (By the A. P.).—True to the prediction of the weather bureau, a crisp cool day dawned for the thousands of speed fans here for the 12th annual 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

Not a cloud was in sight.

Chicago Police Hold 19-Year-Old Nathan Leopold For Questioning in Pursuit of Murderer of Wealthy Man's Son—Arrests Made Elsewhere Fail to Throw Additional Light on the Case

Chicago, May 30.—Nathan Leopold Jr., 19-year-old son of a millionaire box manufacturer, identified as the owner of a pair of glasses found near the body of Robert Franks, 13-year-old kidnaping victim, is in custody today after an all-night questioning in connection with the mystery, which for a week has baffled investigators. He would neither affirm nor deny ownership.

A check-up of stories told by Leopold during the inquiry is being made today and later further questioning will be made, assistant state attorneys said.

Three women and a man were taken to an apartment last night by the detective who found a small portable typewriter and a quantity of paper similar to that on which the ransom demand was written.

The arrests were made in connection with the Indianapolis case where occupants of an automobile answering the description of the one in which Franks is thought to have been spirited away were held. All professed ignorance of the kidnapping.

WASHINGTON PAUSES WHILE HONOR IS PAID

President Lays a Wreath Upon the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Today

Washington, May 30. (By the A. P.) With President Coolidge delivering the principal Memorial Day address in Arlington amphitheater at 1 o'clock all branches of the government, its armed forces and patriotic and religious organizations today joined in paying formal tribute to the nation's war dead.

The placing of a wreath upon the tomb of the unknown soldier by the President accompanied by Secretaries Weeks and Wilbur, heretofore performed by the executive only on Armistice Day—is expected to set a precedent for future Memorial Day exercises at the Arlington cemetery.

All executive departments of the government were closed and the Senate was in recess and arrangements to make the President's address audible by radio to three or four million persons throughout the country had been made by stations WEAJ at New York, WJAR at Providence, R. I., and WCAB at Washington.

Morning exercises at Arlington, arranged by the Woman's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Legion Women, Sons of Veterans and Auxiliaries, included a preliminary parade around the White House by Veterans of the Civil, Spanish and World Wars, with survivors of the Confederate forces participating. Another ceremony at Arlington was arranged by the National American War Mothers and the Flanders Field cross was erected for a special tribute to the American Legion's Post.

The orange originally was a pear-shaped fruit about the size of a cherry. Its evolution is due to 1200 years of cultivation.

FLOWERS LAID ON 120 GRAVES IN CITY TODAY

Bismarck's Tribute to Soldier Dead Is Paid with Solemn Exercises

MANY MARCH IN PARADE

Eulogy to the Soldier Dead of The Nation Is Delivered By Scott Cameron

Flowers were laid on the graves of 120 soldier dead sleeping in Bismarck's cemeteries this morning as the city's official salute to the soldier dead. Eighty graves in St. Mary's cemetery and 40 graves in Fairview cemetery had been marked by American flags placed there last night, and the floral offerings carried by a committee of the American Legion and aids this morning were supplemented by bouquets carried by relatives and friends of many of the nation's dead, and laid tenderly upon the mounds. A firing squad of Company "A," North Dakota National Guard, fired a salute. The committee also dropped flowers from the high bridge over the Missouri, to flume upon the wind and fall in the waters below as a mark of special tribute to the soldier dead whose graves are the ocean's vastness.

The fast falling veterans of the civil conflict of 1861 to 1865 were joined this afternoon by veterans of the Spanish-American and World Wars in the parade which preceded the formal Memorial Day exercises held in the city Auditorium.

Under the leadership of Floyd Speitz Post No. 1, American Legion, with Capt. H. T. Murphy as march leader, the various units of the parade assembled at their respective places of assignment to march thru the streets with measured tread to the dirge of band music. The parade embraced also members of the Woman's Relief Corps, the War Mothers and Auxiliary of the Legion, nurses, members of secret societies and others. The Elks band, Juvenile band and St. Mary's band played as the procession moved behind the colors.

The parade was followed by the Auditorium exercises, at which Scott Cameron was to deliver an eulogy to the dead. Following the invocation by Rev. Ryerson, the program called for singing by the Thursday Musical Club members and Associated Chorus, reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by George Knowles, solo by Henry Halverson and singing by the audience.

Business activities were curtailed in the city today and the banks and public buildings were closed. Aside from a ball game and concert, and recreation sought by individuals and groups, the city's holiday was devoted chiefly to the purpose for which it was decreed by proclamation.

HASTINGS SET FREE IN JURY IN BANK CASE

Is Found Not Guilty in Verdict Returned in Court at Grand Forks

Grand Forks, N. D., May 30.—Not guilty, was the verdict returned last night by the jury of the Grand Forks county district court which tried John J. Hastings, former vice-president of the Scandinavian American bank of Fargo, on the charge of embezzlement preferred against him in an indictment returned by a Cass county grand jury.

The case went to the jury at noon and at 8:45 p. m. the jury announced that it had reached a verdict and was ready to report. Only the accused and the attorneys and court officials were present in the courtroom when the verdict of acquittal was read.

Attorney General George Shafer said last night that the verdict for Hastings would not affect the plans of the state regarding the other Scandinavian American bank cases. No more will be heard at this term of court however, and no time has yet been set for them.

HOUSE AGAIN PRESSES WORK ON FARM BILL

Takes Up McNary-Haugen Measure, Avoiding Usual Memorial Day Recess

AMPLE TIME GIVEN

Washington, May 30. With the vote on the McNary-Haugen farm relief plan in prospect for tomorrow night, the House today, unlike the Senate, took no Memorial Day recess in order to plunge back into the flood of amendments that was sweeping against the measure when it was laid aside Saturday. House members generally predicted a close decision on the bill, which makes a provision for a $200,000,000 corporation to export surplus farm products. Only two of its 28 pages have been disposed of after four hours' consideration of amendments, under the five-minute rule when it was laid aside last week, and these comprise only the preliminary sections defining the emergency for the legislation. Republican leaders yesterday decided to take no concerted action to expedite the measure, but agreed that individual representatives should have ample opportunity to present amendments or substitutes. As the same time, various farm bill members of the Senate and House decided to await the final vote in the latter chamber before determining future efforts to insure enactment of farm relief legislation before adjournment of Congress.

FIND PARTNER OF SLAIN MEN

Companion of Murdered Pair Located in Kentucky

Jamestown, N. D., May 30 Jim Gates, the man who accompanied Winford Stookey and James Kohn, the two young men murdered here last August, from the harvest field of Kansas through Nebraska and South Dakota, and supposedly here, have been located in the state of Kentucky. He is said to have returned there, his former home, about Christmas time with a Ford car, which he has since disposed of, and is still about the city of Mayfield, his former home. This information has been obtained by the Jamestown Alert reporter through correspondence and is in the hands of local authorities.

County Attorney Chase is taking steps to have the man questioned as to his knowledge of the murder case and how he obtained the car, if the Ford that the man took back to Kentucky is the same as that purchased by the slain men in Kansas.

The young men Stookey and Kohn to whose murder Berger confessed it will be remembered, came from Missouri and worked north through the harvest fields of Kansas and Nebraska. They purchased a Ford car at Wilson, Kansas, and there also picked up a third member to the party, one Jim Gates, who was with them when last seen.

Netos Calls to Mind Lessons of Civil War and Manner in Which the Men of the South Buried Their Enemy and Rallied Round the One Flag of the Nation

Mandan, N. D., May 30.—Americans should pause to consider the lessons of the past in honoring her soldier dead on Memorial Day, Governor R. A. Netos said in delivering a Memorial Day address here today. The Governor said in part: "Whenever a war has been waged to destroy tyranny and oppression and to promote justice and humanity and has contributed to the growth of mankind in freedom, it is our duty and privilege to celebrate and to honor the memories of those who fought in the war. "By these celebrations, however, we can in no way profit them; they have done their public work and passed on. Many of them did not live to reap any of the fruits of their valorous and to see the results of their labors and rejoiced only to know that their death had been the privilege of suffering and dying for the cause in which they believed. Rightly and indelibly are their names and deeds recorded upon the pages of history and engraved in the hearts of all true patriots. "But though we may not benefit from them, we need such memorial services for our own sake and for the sake of our children and our children's children; that we may catch the spirit of the patriots of old and conserve ourselves and dedicate our names to the task of carrying on the work they have so nobly begun. Not only to preserve what by their suffering or death they have gained for us but that faithful to our trust and mindful of our opportunities we may return to the race, that which we have received with interest and so contribute our share of the world's growth in freedom. We should not only rejoice that these men have accomplished their task, but that their devotion, their courage and their patriotism shall be inspired to more zealous work for the greater social, economic and political freedom. For not only is eternal vigilance the price of liberty but the eternal struggle for more liberty is ever the lot of him who does not shrink but seeks manfully to contribute his share toward the happiness and greater prosperity of the race. "It is because we Americans were not and are imbued with this spirit that the south while defeated was not disgraced and while conquered was not broken in spirit. Inspiring Sentiments

With these sentiments inspiring the American people the rancor and bitterness of the great Civil War were sure to disappear and to be supplanted by a common loyalty to our common country, which has so splendidly manifested itself in the Spanish-American War and in the World War. And so we find that it was but a few decades after the great war had closed that one of the Confederate soldiers reeled at a G. A. R. convention the following stanza, expressive of the new sentiments, hopes and prayers of a reunited people: "I shed the blood that made me free, I chose a flag, a nation for me, I share with you to see the stars. All on a common field one mark, our country and our ideal for a united front, bending its every energy to promote the greater freedom of the race, inhering to strike whatever shackles enslave our citizenship."

SAYS U. S. MUST BE WILLING TO GIVE FOR PACT

Strikes at Proposal to Join on Condition of Separation From the League

MEMORIAL DAY TALK

Stresses the Foundations of The Republic and the Necessity for Sacrifice

Washington, May 30.—(By the A. P.)—Proposals for American adherence to the World Court contingent upon its disassociation of the League of Nations were characterized by President Coolidge in his memorial day address at Arlington as unworthy of American principles and traditions.

"If we receive anything we must surrender something," said the President, speaking of the World Court and the question of American membership in it. "We may as well face the question candidly and if we are willing to assume these new duties in exchange for the benefits which would accrue to us, let us say so. If we are not willing let us say that. We can accomplish nothing by taking a doubtful or ambiguous position."

The President did not refer directly to the plan advanced by a majority of the Senate foreign relations committee for American membership in the Permanent Court of International Justice provided the signatory nations agreed to disassociate the Court from the League, but his declaration was taken generally to apply to that proposal.

Indorses Harding Plan

He renewed his indorsement of the original Harding-Hughes World Court plan and said he would not oppose other reservations, but at the same time asserted "any material changes which would not probably receive the consent of the many other nations would be impracticable." Warning was given by the President against leaving the country unprotected because history has shown there have been and will be tendencies of one nation to encroach on another. He coupled with this warning, however, the statement that he was opposed "to every kind of military aggrandizement and to all forms of competitive armament," and that America should do its part in making fast the ideal of limitation announced by international conventions.

Nations Foundation

The President began his address, delivered at the annual ceremonies in the memorial amphitheater with an analysis of the founding and guiding principles of the nation, forecasting such a future for the nation as would be supported by individuals and the state of a portion of their rights and their sovereignty in order to obtain the benefits accruing to the organized whole.

"In these days little need exists for extolling the blending of our federal union," he continued. "Its benefits are known and recognized by all its citizens who are worthy of serious attention. No one thinks now for attempting to destroy the union by armed force. No one seriously considers withdrawing from it, but it is not enough that it should be free from attack; it must be preserved and supported by a national spirit. Our prime allegiance must be to the whole country. A sentiment of sectionalism is not harmless because it is unarmed. Resistance to the righteous authority of federal laws is not innocent because it is not accompanied by secession. We need a more definite realization that all our country must stand or fall together, and that it is the duty of the government to promote the welfare of each part and the duty of the citizens to remember that he must be first of all an American."

For Harding Plan

"I do not look upon it as a certain guarantee against war, but it would be a method of disposing of troublesome questions, an accumulation of which leads to irritating conditions and results in mutually hostile sentiments. "More than a year ago President Harding proposed that the Senate should authorize our adherence to the protocol of the Permanent Court (Continued on page 6)

Important Case to be Tried, in Which Big Sum Is Sought

An important law suit involving the State Bonding Fund will open at Bowbells June 2.

In this case Burke county is suing the bonding fund for $77,000 on account of county funds tied up in the closed First State Bank of Bowbells. The county alleged the funds were improperly protected by the treasurer, and the State Bonding Fund is liable to the full amount of his bond.

John Thorpe, first assistant attorney-general, will represent the bonding fund in the trial.

SAYS U. S. MUST BE WILLING TO GIVE FOR PACT

Strikes at Proposal to Join on Condition of Separation From the League

MEMORIAL DAY TALK

Stresses the Foundations of The Republic and the Necessity for Sacrifice

Washington, May 30.—(By the A. P.).—Proposals for American adherence to the World Court contingent upon its disassociation of the League of Nations were characterized by President Coolidge in his memorial day address at Arlington as unworthy of American principles and traditions.

"If we receive anything we must surrender something," said the President, speaking of the World Court and the question of American membership in it. "We may as well face the question candidly and if we are willing to assume these new duties in exchange for the benefits which would accrue to us, let us say so. If we are not willing let us say that. We can accomplish nothing by taking a doubtful or ambiguous position."

The President did not refer directly to the plan advanced by the majority of the Senate foreign relations committee for American membership in the Permanent Court of International Justice provided the signatory nations agreed to disassociate the Court from the League, but his declaration was taken generally to apply to that proposal.

Indorses Harding Plan

He renewed his indorsement of the original Harding-Hughes World Court plan and said he would not oppose other reservations, but at the same time asserted "any material changes which would not probably receive the consent of the many other nations would be impracticable."

Warning was given by the President against leaving the country undefended because it has shown "there have been and will be tendencies of one nation to encroach on another." He coupled with this warning, however, the statement that he was opposed "to every kind of military aggrandizement and to all forms of competitive armament," and that America should do its part in making fast the ideal of limitation armament by international conventions.

Nations Foundation

The President began his address, delivered at the annual ceremonies in the memorial amphitheater with an analysis of the founding and guiding principles of the nation, foremost among which he found to be the necessity for surrender by individuals and by the state of a portion of their rights and their sovereignty in order to obtain the benefits accruing to the organized whole.

"In these days little need exists for extolling the blending of our federal union," he continued. "Its benefits are known and recognized by all its citizens who are worthy of serious attention. No one thinks now for attempting to destroy the union by armed force. No one seriously considers withdrawing from it, but it is not enough that it should be free from attack—it must be approved and supported by a national spirit. Our prime allegiance must be to the whole country. A sentiment of sectionalism is not harmless because it is unarmed. Resistance to the righteous authority of federal laws is not innocent because it is not accompanied by secession. We need a more definite realization that all our country must stand or fall together, and that it is the duty of the government to promote the welfare of each part and the duty of the citizens to remember that he must be first of all an American."

For Harding Plan

"I do not look upon it as a certain guarantee against war, but it would be a method of disposing of troublesome questions, an accumulation of which leads to irritating conditions and results in mutually hostile sentiments."

"More than a year ago President Harding proposed that the Senate should authorize our adherence to the protocol of the Permanent Court (Continued on page 6)

ABOLITION OF FLAT HAIL TAX POSSIBILITY
Would Cut Taxes $250,000 a Year If Eliminated By Legislature

QUESTIONS INVOLVED

Success of the method of handling state flat warrant cases, in which, which resulted in each case a flat warrant being issued, and which, in turn, has resulted in the payment of warrants in cash flat warrants being repaid by the state in excess with the exception of $200,000, and there is more than enough in the fund at this time to pay the balance due.

Payment of the warrants in cash was made possible and the last legislature reduced the 3-cent acre flat tax to one cent and an acre tax in taxes, and approximately $514,000 a year, the three cent tax having yielded $1,542,000 in 1922. Abolition of the one cent tax would make a further reduction in taxes, on the basis of the 1922 levy for this purpose, $272,201.26.

The question is expected to be raised, and arguments advanced that abolition of the tax, particularly during a time when taxpayers are complaining of their land, could be made without injury to the hail insurance department.

The state department borrowed $1,600,000 last December 15 to add to the funds of about a million and a half dollars on hand to pay warrants in cash. Six hundred thousand dollars of the loan was repaid April 15, $800,000 was repaid May 15 and $200,000 is due June 15, with $300,000 on hand at the present time to meet the last payment. By the time flat warrants are due next winter, for the 1924 losses, the state fund should have a large surplus, and with a comparatively small loan, warrants can be paid as due. The surplus of the hail insurance fund was $2,909,081.82 on March 31, 1922, and it has been considerably augmented since then.

The question expected to be thrashed out as a result of the examination of the condition of the department, is whether or not it would be better to pay the expense involved in interest on a loan and reduce taxes, or to proceed to levy the taxes to quickly build up a surplus to several million dollars.

Springfield, Mass., May 29.—A proposal for a drastic change in the divorce law of the Methodist Episcopal church was defeated by a vote of 10 to 9 at the closing session of the annual conference. The vote was 700 to 400.

The proposal would have authorized a divorced person when the husband or wife is living unless the person is the innocent party in a divorce for adultery.

The change would have legalized divorces except those of guilty parties in divorces for adultery.

LAW FOR WEEK DAY RELIGIOUS SCHOOLS URGED

Norwegian Lutheran Church Closes Its Conference Held in Fargo

Fargo, N. D., May 29.—In resolutions adopted late Wednesday at the closing session of the annual convention of the North Dakota district of America, the next North Dakota legislature is requested to enact laws making it possible for children, whose parents so desire, to be released from the public schools for a maximum of three hours per week, to attend religiously established week-day church schools.

The resolutions declare that the "prevalence of crime, the open display of authority behind the law and low moral standards constitute a menace to the welfare of the church," and that, "the time now available for the churches to instruct the young in religion and sound morality through the Sunday schools, vacation schools, and confirmation classes, is very inadequate because of unavoidable conditions."

For these reasons the resolutions declare and because, "in the opinion of George F. Shafer, attorney general, there now is no law on the statutes of North Dakota, making adequate provision for the release of the children from the public schools for attendance upon the generally understood forms of week-day church school," it is deemed imperative that some provisions be made for this class of training.

Reaffirming its belief in the canonical books of the Old and New Testaments, as "inspired by the Spirit of God" and confessing its adherence to the Apostolic confession of faith, "in accordance with the words of the testaments," the convention in another set of resolutions, declared that the Lutheran church "cannot, before God, tolerate in its synods, anyone who holds views contrary to the before-mentioned confession of faith."

IN MEMORY OF THE DEAD
How many of the heroic boys in gray are still alive this Memorial Day? The check-up by the United Confederate Veterans about 20 months ago disclosed that only 75,000 were alive, out of the more than a million who defended the south during the Civil War. Since then, time has continued its remorseless toll.
It is the same with the boys in blue. The ranks of both sides are thinning rapidly. A few more years and the last of the Civil War veterans will have joined their comrades on "fame's eternal camping ground."
Thus Memorial Day is gradually losing part of its original significance. The graves remain and will ever be honored and strewn with flowers. But the flags of the marchers will be carried by veterans of the Spanish-American War and World War.
That is the tragedy of life. For life is like war, in that the grave awaits at the end. In the presence of tragedy, let Memorial Day inspire us to work for lasting peace throughout the world. Peace is the soldier's goal, and it should be the goal of all.

CRIME
A Chicago man, accused of a $30,000 swindle, is quoted as indignantly protesting to the court: "What, me take 30 grand! Not me, judge. I don't waste my time unless there's a hundred thousand bucks in it."
It is sometimes much safer to steal million than $5, unfortunately, when it comes to the law and punishment. But the law doesn't make the distinction. It's just that the rich thief can afford an army of crafty lawyers able to find loopholes or delay the case. The small-time crook isn't able to hire such an array of "talent."

LOSERS
Cable from London reports that the British during the first four months this year imported about 400 million dollars worth of goods more than they exported. This puts them in the hole at the rate of 1200 million dollars a year.
And in this situation is the key of present British diplomacy. Above all, they want trade—customers. That's why they hand an olive branch to Russia and insist on a reparations settlement such that Germany can get back to normal production and buying power. The flag follows trade more than trade follows the flag.

WEATHER
Makers of auto tires have seven and a half million tires stored in their warehouses. This is almost as many as three years ago when hard times started.
The manufacturers blame the weather—backward spring, which has kept people indoors instead of motoring. That's probably why the auto industry recently slumped. It also explains sluggish retail sales in many cities. No wonder, people talk so much about the weather, which directly affects every one's pocketbook.

LEGACY
A laundry wagon driver inherits $50,000 in Trenton, N. J. He announces he'll keep on working. Which excites amazement, but shouldn't.
The $50,000 at 4 per cent interest would bring the driver $2,000 a year. He couldn't do much with that, prices so high. Time was when $50,000 was a whale of a fortune and the house of the owner was pointed out with the buggy whip to visitors being driven around town. Those days are gone. Even a millionaire doesn't excite much interest now, they're so numerous.

DIAMONDS
South African diamond mines are working again after being almost entirely shut down for several years.
This means that the world is steadily recovering from the business depression caused by the war. When people begin to sport diamonds, they have money to spare.
Diamond headquarters in Kimberley reports that the revival of the diamond industry is chiefly due to demand for the cheaper or medium-grade stones. Indicating prosperity at the base.

FOOTBALL
Is college football becoming too commercialized? One university's profits from this sport last year were about $40,000. College heads are wondering if football isn't shaping as a business rather than an athletic game.
Professionalism in the boxoffice is as much a menace as professionalism among players. Sport for sport's sake is endangered when the sport becomes a medium for tapping the public pocketbook.

LESS
Industrial profits are shrinking, a financial "expert" claims. He's been studying the financial reports of about 100 leading corporations, finds profits from 7 to 43 per cent lower than a year ago.
Not necessarily. Bookkeepers and tax-dodging experts work wonders. They are wizards at concealing profits. With exceptions, the expression "financial statement" doesn't mean what it used to—not by a long shot.

INDISPENSABLE
When Edison, a quarter of a century ago, saw the auto demonstrated as a practical device for widespread use, he was most impressed with the possibility of it becoming the means of getting the public to go camping outdoors.
Time proves he was right. But the auto, originally appealing to imagination as a pleasure vehicle, has become more of a business device. Its chief use is for saving time. Without it, street car transportation would have broken down long ago. What do you predict for airplanes, which eventually will be used by the millions?

LIVELIER POLITICS IN CANADA
Premier Mackenzie King's success in uniting the Progressive group with the Liberals in support of the government's policy of freer trade should tend to give a new interest to Canadian politics. The Progressives represent particularly the free trade demand of the Canadian west. In the last general election they eliminated the Conservatives from the three prairie provinces. They very nearly did the same thing for the Liberal Party.
Saskatchewan, that is, sent only one Liberal, while but two were elected in Winnipeg with one Labor representative; Calgary also elected a Labor representative and an independent with equally radical views.
Otherwise the prairie provinces are represented in the federal house entirely by Progressive members. There are Progressives, too, from most of the other provinces, and this Progressive leaning has undoubtedly helped to live up to the Liberal Party.
In the conclusion of an able speech at the closing of the budget debate, the Dominion prime minister held out hope of still more progress to be made following upon this year's steps toward freer trade, when he declared that the government had not yet finished its work.
"We have a lot more to do," he added, "we have only started upon what we hope to be able to do for this country."
Since the Liberal Administration took office a conservative element in the party has tended to retard forward movement. But in recent months some of the conservatives on the Liberal side have withdrawn from association with the government. Others may go, as the Liberal policy is developed.
Far from weakening the administration, however, such resignations should tend to strengthen it, the gain of closer union with the Progressive forces means more to the Prime Minister than the apparent loss due to the withdrawals of some members who have hitherto called themselves Liberal.
The government has to reckon with the possibility of an alignment of vested interests behind the Conservative Party. It has been the traditional policy of business organizations in Canada, however, to keep out of active politics.
Some interests have supported both parties more or less impartially. During the election campaign on the reciprocity treaty of 1911 there seemed to be a tendency among vested interests to unite against the Liberal policy, but experience since has given many Canadian business men cause to doubt the wisdom of that negative vote.
A policy of negation in another general election in Canada would be about as likely to succeed as the policy of "tranquillity" did in Great Britain last year. It would last about as long. The Canadian people want action, and the government's Liberal policy this session is simply a response to the pressure of public opinion—Christian Science Monitor.

Backyard Playgrounds
By W. C. Batchelor
Handball is a game in which father and son can grow up together. Dad can break in his boy at about the age of 10 or 12. Almost any back yard will provide ample space for a court.
Any flat wall, either wood or brick, with a free space of level ground adjoining, will do. The court may be any size, but in general the following proportions should be followed: The wall space should be four-fifths as high as it is wide, and the court should be two and one-half times as long as the wall is high.
A "service" line divides the court midway between the wall and the back line. This is called a single-walled court.
The game is played on the same principle as tennis, but with the hand instead of a racket, and against the wall instead of over a net. A tennis ball or any similar rubber ball may be used.
The rules are simple and the game is easily picked up by the beginner. Its devotees claim it has all the fascination of any other sport.

OUTLOOK FOR FARMERS
By Albert Apple
American farmers this year are going to spend a bit more than in 1923. This is indicated by sales of the leading mail order houses, which so far this year have totaled about a seventh more than in the corresponding months of 1923.
Still, a gain of a seventh in buying power is mighty big to a farmer who has been operating at a loss or bare profit.
Economists consider mail order sales a barometer of farmers' buying power.
Farmers' spending this year is, of course, regulated a lot by their profits or losses in 1923.
Last year's crops, for the whole country, according to Department of Agriculture, were valued at 9953 million dollars, which was about 1000 millions more than the year before.
Says the department, "The distress of wheat growers is strikingly shown by the estimate of the value of the 1923 wheat crop which is 726 million dollars, compared with 874 millions in 1922 and 2080 millions in 1919."
That was equivalent to a city man having his wages reduced nearly two-thirds in two years. Ouch!
Farmers in 1923 got for their crops and meats about a fourth more money than in 1914. But prices and costs had about doubled. So, figured in terms of pre-war buying power, the farmer in 1923 was only three-fifths as prosperous as before the war.
This affects all of us, for prosperity cannot be on a sound and steady basis unless there is a just balance between city and farm buying power, since each is the customer of the other. An impoverished customer can't buy.
The foreign markets outlook for the American farmer might be brighter. International Institute of Agriculture in Rome estimates that on July 31 there'll be 275 million bushels of old wheat on hand in exporting countries, compared with 118 million bushels July 31, 1923.
The surplus powerfully affects prices. It might possibly be counteracted by a lower world wheat yield in 1924. A lot depends on the weather.
In the nine months ended April 1, American wheat exports were almost 64 million bushels less than in the corresponding period a year ago, and corn exports decreased over 65 million bushels. Meat exports made a big gain.

Once in a while, Ruth, Dad takes a stand, and he did take one today with Alice.
"I have seen," he said, "with increasing distrust and distaste, Alice, your growing idea that every one who comes near you must be at your beck and call, and right now I would like to give Karl a tip. Unless he brings you up short his life will be given to doing things for you which you would better do yourself. Karl is too good a man, too big a man, to be dancing at your whim all the time. Neither your mother nor I will do it."
"We are all going our several ways today, and you can take care of yourself for the next six or seven hours."
"Dad, I think you're a perfect beast!" said Alice as she flounced out of the room.
Karl started to go to her, but Dad promptly insisted that he should stay behind.
"But I don't want Alice to be unhappy, Mr. Hamilton," he said.
"She won't be," answered Dad serenely. "In fact, after she gets used to it she'll be happier than she is now. No selfish person is ever very happy."
"I think, Alice," he said turning to Mother, "that you and I made a mistake in letting our youngest daughter remain abroad so long alone. She has no discipline whatever. In fact, she is not able to discipline herself, and of course when she is married, Karl, you'll have to do it, and I must say I don't envy you the job."
"The child has had altogether too much money and too little responsibility to others."
Karl looked very much relieved, and we all started out on our various ways. I of course had to go to the wholesale houses for you, and Karl was going down to Franklin street to see his lawyer, so we decided to meet at a little restaurant near Wall street, much patronized by business men and financiers.
"I will meet you exactly at 1 o'clock," said Karl as he put me in the taxi.
"All right," I answered, and drove away.
At 1 o'clock I found Karl waiting for me at the door of the restaurant. I saw him before he saw me, and I was somewhat anxious to note his drooping shoulders and general air of dejection. I wondered if he had had bad news from his lawyer.
When he saw me his eyes lighted up, however, and I thought perhaps I had over-emphasized his attitude.
We found a table in a far corner, partly screened by a palm. The first thing he said to me was:
"I hope your digestion is good, for the specialty they make here is fat mince pie with toasted cheese poured over it."
"So that was what made you look so unhappy when I came in; you'd been eating it!"
His voice changed.
"Did I look unhappy, Leslie?" he asked.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Mistah 'Possum looked in his snuff box, and what do you think?
There wasn't one single pinch of snuff left. Not one.
Mistah 'Possum was a southern gentleman and was just traveling around to see the world a bit. As he said, all the birds came north in the spring, so why shouldn't he?
He had taken up his quarters in the button-hole tree and kept bachelor hall.
"Please, suh, can you tell me where I may find a stoah?" he called to Daddy Cracknuts over in the maple tree, just as Daddy was going out to buy a morning paper.
"Sure!" called Daddy. "I'm just going there now. Come right along and I'll show you, neighbor."
So Mistah 'Possum swung himself down.
Daddy was curious about his neighbor, but he was too polite to ask questions. However, Mistah 'Possum, like most southern people, was quite talkative and friendly, and soon Daddy knew all about him.
"Some time you must come south," said the 'possum gentleman. "And I shall show you all sorts of things. The persimmon trees are wonderful. And the oleandals and magnolias smell mahvellous."
"How about nuts?" asked Daddy, who didn't care so much about nice smells as about nice eats.
"Shuahly! Shuahly!" said Mistah 'Possum. "Peanuts and pecans! And buttal nuts too! You'd nevah stave!"
"All right, sir. I'd like to go south some day on a vacatoion," said Daddy. "Ma and I may go next year. That is if she doesn't get hay fever."
"Hay fever! What's that?" asked Mistah 'Possum curiously.
"It's something that makes you sneeze all the time," answered daddy.
"Oh, I see! Something like snuff," said Mistah 'Possum.
"Like what?"
"Like snuff. That's what I wish to

A Great Common Cause

by Hal Cochran

Today all the nation has reason to pause. To stand in respect to a great common cause; The aged and young will let laborers all cease; While they honor the ones who have battled for peace; A peace that has been made much more solid today. By the men of the Khaki, the Blue and the Gray.

The turmoils have come and they're faded away; As wrong has been downed and the right given away; Our fathers and sons fought to settle alarms; They have willingly answered the summons to arms; What had to be done they were ready to do— Were the men of the Khaki, the Blue and the Gray.

And we who survive hold in memory fast; Respect for those fathers and sons who have passed; 'Tis little at best that the living can do; Our message is silent, but heartfelt and true; For the Gray and the Blue and the Khaki we pause— For theirs after all was a Great Common Cause. GRADUATES OF ST. MARY'S ARE GIVEN HONORS

Diplomas Awarded at Annual Exercises Held in the School Auditorium

FATHER SLAG SPEAKS

The St. Mary's school auditorium was packed, and many were unable to get seats, at the annual graduation exercises of St. Mary's high school held last night.

Father Slag, addressing the graduates, in the beginning defined education and laid special stress on the importance of character building in education. He mentioned the small number of graduates of the high school, but said this made no difference to the individual graduate. He exhorted the students to be loyal to God, to their country and to their school.

"The greatest gratitude you can show for your privileges is a spotless life," said Father Slag. Father Slag reviewed the Oregon law prohibiting private schools, which was held unconstitutional recently. This declaration of unconstitutionality, he said, was not given by Catholics but by three judges, all members of the Masonic order. He then said that all men in public life in the country up to 1840 were graduates of private schools. Therefore, he said, the accusation brought against the parochial schools as of un-American spirit is wrong. A present spirit of bigotry, he predicted, will cease.

Father Slag explained the class motto: "Out of the Harbor into the Billorey Sea," as emblematic of the solid character of the graduates that will combat the storms of the ocean of life.

A certificate of perfect attendance was given to Clement Kelly. The graduates awarded diplomas were: Nicholas H. Woehle, Clement E. Kelley, Hildegard C. Beasom, Josephine M. Charlebois and Barbara M. Margart.

Two exceptionally fine numbers were rendered by the high school chorus. The program included a saxophone duet by Howard Murphy and William Corrigan, address by Nicholas H. Woehle, piano duet by Katherine Boesflug and Margaret Boehm, cornet duet by Herman Batzer and George Jaskowski.

Following the exercises the boys' band of St. Mary's gave an outdoor concert.

AT THE MOVIES

When "Riders Up" Universal star picture to be shown in the Capitol theater Saturday was pronounced ready for distribution, Irving Cummings, the director, completed his fourth straight production for Universal. The other three are "Stolen Secrets," "The Dancing Cheat," and "Fools Highway."

The screen story was adapted from the Red Book Magazine story, "When Johnny Comes Marching Home," by Gerald Beaumont, acclaimed one of the best fiction writers dealing with sport. It is a story of race track life and was filmed at Tia Juana the horses, jockeys and many others being actually employed in the capacities shown on the screen.

THE ELTINGE

"Pied Piper Malone" is Tom Meighan's latest. Booth Tarkington wrote the story, a screen original. It was shown at the Eltinge theatre yesterday and shows again today and tomorrow. Lois Wilson is the girl and George Fawcett, Cyril Ring and Charles Stevenson are in the cast. Alfred E. Green directed. It's a story of sea-faring folk, ships and shipping—a small-town romance with an appeal not unlike that of "The Bachelor Daddy." Mr. Meighan had a good taste of the sea in "Homeward Bound" and has tried his luck at it again.

A Great Common Cause

by Hal Cochran

Today all the nation has reason to pause.

To stand in respect to a great common cause;

The aged and young will let labors all cease;

While they honor the ones who have battled for peace;

A peace that's been made much more solid today;

By the men of the Khaki, the Blue and the Gray.

The turmoils have come and they're faded away

Our fathers and sons have fought the right given sway;

They have willingly answered the summons to arms;

What had to be done they were ready to do;

Were the men of the Khaki, the Gray and Blue.

And we who survive hold in memory fast

Respect for those fathers and sons who have passed;

'Tis little at best that the living can do.

Our message is silent, but heartfelt and true;

For the Gray and the Blue and the Khaki we pause—

For theirs after all was a Great Common Cause.

GRADUATES OF ST. MARY'S ARE GIVEN HONORS

Diplomas Awarded at Annual Exercises Held in the School Auditorium

FATHER SLAG SPEAKS

The St. Mary's school auditorium was packed, and many were unable to get seats, at the annual graduation exercises of St. Mary's high school held last night.

Father Slag, addressing the graduates, in the beginning defined education and laid special stress on the importance of character building in education. He mentioned the small number of graduates of the high school, but said this made no difference to the individual graduate. He exhorted the students to be loyal to God, to their country and to their school.

"The greatest gratitude you can show for your privileges is a spotless life," said Father Slag.

Father Slag reviewed the Oregon law prohibiting private schools, which was held unconstitutional recently. This declaration of unconstitutionality, he said, was not given by Catholics but by three judges, all members of the Masonic order. He then said that all men in public life in the country up to 1840 were graduates of private schools. Therefore, he said, the accusation brought against the parochial schools as of un-American spirit is wrong. The present spirit of bigotry, he predicted, will cease.

Father Slag explained the class motto: "Out of the Harbor into the Billowy Sea" as emblematic of the solid character of the graduates which will combat the storms of the ocean of life.

A certificate of perfect attendance was given to Clement Kelly. The graduates awarded diplomas were: Nicholas H. Woehle, Clement E. Kelley, Hildegard C. Beasmore, Josephine M. Charlebois and Barbara M. Marquart.

Two exceptionally fine numbers were rendered by the high school chorus. The program included a saxophone duet by Howard Murphy and William Corrigan, address by Nicholas H. Woehle, piano duet by Katherine Boesflug and Margaret Boehm, cornet duet by Herman Butler and George Jaskowski.

Preceding the exercises the boys' band of St. Mary's gave an outdoor concert.

LIVELIER POLITICS IN CANADA
Premier Mackenzie King's success in uniting the Progressive group with the Liberals in support of the government's policy of free trade should tend to give a new interest to Canadian politics. The Progressives represent particularly the free trade demand of the Canadian west. In the last general election they eliminated the Conservatives from the three prairie provinces. They very nearly did the same thing for the Liberal Party.

Saskatchewan that is, sent only one Liberal, while but two were elected in Winnipeg with one Labor representative. Calgary also elected a Labor representative and an independent with equally radical views.

Otherwise the prairie provinces are represented in the federal house entirely by Progressive members. There are Progressives too, from most of the other provinces, and this Progressive leaning has undoubtedly helped to liven up the Liberal Party.

In the conclusion of an able speech at the closing of the budget debate, the Dominion prime minister held out hope of still more progress to be made following upon this year's steps toward free trade, when he declared that the government had not yet finished its work.

"We have a lot more to do," he added, "we have only started upon what we hope to be able to do for this country."

Since the Liberal Administration took office a conservative element in the party has tended to retard forward movement. But in recent months some of the conservatives on the Liberal side have withdrawn from association with the government. Others may go as the Liberal policy is developed.

Far from weakening the administration, however, such resignations should tend to strengthen it; the gain of closer union with the Progressive forces means more to the Prime Minister than the apparent loss due to the withdrawals of some members who have hitherto called themselves Liberal.

The government has to reckon with the possibility of an alignment of vested interests behind the Conservative Party. It has been the traditional policy of business organizations in Canada, however, to keep out of active politics.

Some interests have supported both parties more or less impartially. During the election campaign of the reciprocity treaty of 1911 there seemed to be a tendency among vested interests to unite against the Liberal policy, but experience since has given many Canadian business men cause to doubt the wisdom of that negative vote.

A policy of negotiation in another general election in Canada would be about as likely to succeed as the policy of "tranquility" did in Great Britain last year. It would last about as long. The Canadian people want action, and the government's Liberal policy this session is simply a response to the pressure of public opinion—Christian Science Monitor.

HANDBALL GAME FOR FATHER, SON
By W. C. Batchelor
Handball is a game in which father and son can grow up together. Dad can break in his boy at about the age of 10 or 12. Almost any back yard will provide ample space for a court.

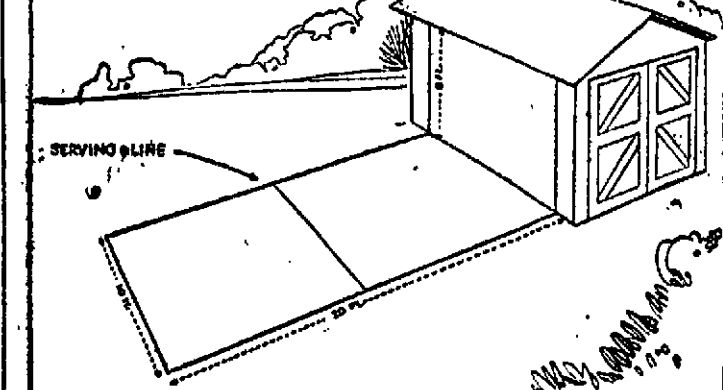

Any flat wall, either wood or brick, with a free space of level ground adjoining, will do. The court may be any size, but in general the following proportions should be followed: The wall space should be four-fifths as high as it is wide, and the court should be two and one-half times as long as the wall is high.

A "service" line divides the court midway between the wall and the back line. This is called a single-walled court.

The game is played on the same principle as tennis, but with the hand instead of a racket, and against the wall instead of over a net. A tennis ball or any similar rubber ball may be used.

The rules are simple and the game is easily picked up by the beginner. Its devotees claim it has all the fascination of any other sport.

In connection with this merit badge, it is required that the scout endeavor to remedy these principles. In connection with this I wonder if you couldn't put a little notice in your paper, about crossing the street from sidewalk to sidewalk, instead of through the center of the street especially down town. The laws of Bismarck govern the crossing of the streets at points of intersection but this law is not carefully enforced. Another safety first principle is in regard to throwing banana peels in the street, if you will touch

By Albert Apple
American farmers this year are going to spend a bit more than in 1923. This is indicated by sales of the leading mail order houses, which so far this year have totaled about a seventh more than in the corresponding months of 1923.

Still, a gain of a seventh in buying power is mighty big to a farmer who has been operating at a loss or bare profit. Economists consider mail order sales a barometer of farmers' buying power.

Farmers' spending this year is, of course, regulated a lot by their profits or losses in 1923.

Last year's crops, for the whole country, according to Department of Agriculture, were valued at 9953 million dollars, which was about 1000 millions more than the year before.

Says the department, "The distress of wheat growers is strikingly shown by the estimate of the value of the 1923 wheat crop which is 726 million dollars, compared with 874 millions in 1922 and 2080 millions in 1919."

That was equivalent to a city man having his wages reduced nearly two-thirds in two years. Ouch!

Farmers in 1923 got for their crops and meats about a fourth more money than in 1914. But prices and costs had about doubled. So, figured in terms of pre-war buying power, the farmer in 1923 was only three-fifths as prosperous as before the war.

This affects all of us, for prosperity cannot be on a sound and steady basis unless there is a just balance between city and farm buying power, since each is the customer of the other. An impoverished customer can't buy.

The foreign markets outlook for the American farmer might be brighter. International Institute of Agriculture in Rome estimates that on July 31 there'll be 275 million bushels of old wheat on hand in exporting countries, compared with 118 million bushels July 31, 1923.

The surplus powerfully affects prices. It might possibly be counteracted by a lower world wheat yield in 1924. A lot depends on the weather.

In the nine months ended April 1, American wheat exports were almost 64 million bushels less than in the corresponding period a year ago, and corn exports decreased over 65 million bushels. Meat exports made a big gain.

CRIME
A Chicago man, accused of a $30,000 swindle, is quoted as indignantly protesting to the court: "What, me take 30 grand! Not me, judge. I don't waste my time unless there's a hundred thousand bucks in it."

It is sometimes much safer to steal million than $5, unfortunately, when it comes to the law and punishment. But the law doesn't make the distinction. It's just that the rich thief can afford an army of crafty lawyers able to find loopholes or delay the case. The small-time crook isn't able to hire such an array of "talent."

LOSERS
Cable from London reports that the British during the first four months this year imported about 400 million dollars worth of goods more than they exported. This puts them in the hole at the rate of 1200 million dollars a year.

And in this situation is the key of present British diplomacy. Above all, they want trade—customers. That's why they hand an olive branch to Russia and insist on a reparations settlement such that Germany can get back to normal production and buying power. The flag follows trade more than trade follows the flag.

WEATHER
Makers of auto tires have seven and a half million tires stored in their warehouses. This is almost as many as three years ago when hard times started.

The manufacturers blame the weather—backward spring, which has kept people indoors instead of motoring. That's probably why the auto industry recently slumped. It also explains sluggish retail sales in many cities. No wonder, people talk so much about the weather, which directly affects every one's pocketbook.

LEGACY
A laundry wagon driver inherits $50,000 in Trenton, N. J. He announces he'll keep on working. Which excites amazement, but shouldn't.

The $50,000 at 4 per cent interest would bring the driver $2,000 a year. He couldn't do much with that, prices so high. Time was when $50,000 was a whale of a fortune and the house of the owner was pointed out with the buggy whip to visitors being driven around town. Those days are gone. Even a millionaire doesn't excite much interest now, they're so numerous.

DIAMONDS
South African diamond mines are working again after being almost entirely shut down for several years.

This means that the world is steadily recovering from the business depression caused by the war. When people begin to sport diamonds, they have money to spare.

Diamond headquarters in Kimberley reports that the revival of the diamond industry is chiefly due to demand for the cheaper or medium-grade stones. Indicating prosperity at the base.

FOOTBALL
Is college football becoming too commercialized? One university's profits from this sport last year were about $40,000. College heads are wondering if football isn't shaping as a business rather than an athletic game.

Professionalism in the boxoffice is as much a menace as professionalism among players. Sport for sport's sake is endangered when the sport becomes a medium for tapping the public pocketbook.

LESS
Industrial profits are shrinking, a financial "expert" claims. He's been studying the financial reports of about 100 leading corporations, finds profits from 7 to 43 per cent lower than a year ago.

Not necessarily. Bookkeepers and tax-dodging experts work wonders. They are wizards at concealing profits. With exceptions, the expression "financial statement" doesn't mean what it used to—not by a long shot.

INDISPENSABLE
When Edison, a quarter of a century ago, saw the auto demonstrated as a practical device for widespread use, he was most impressed with the possibility of it becoming the means of getting the public to go camping outdoors.

Time proves he was right. But the auto, originally appealing to imagination as a pleasure vehicle, has become more of a business device. Its chief use is for saving time. Without it, street car transportation would have broken down long ago. What do you predict for airplanes, which eventually will be used by the millions?

A Thought
Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise—Prov. 6:6.

People that have nothing to do are quickly tired of their own company. —Jerome Collier.

RELIEF CONSTIPATION
I have been troubled the last 4 or 5 years with constipation and have tried everything under the sun, but could not find any relief until I got FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS, and you can bet they are the pills, writes Robert E. Smith, 417 N. Robert St., Ludington, Mich. FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS give quick relief from constipation, also act on the liver. Especially comforting to stout persons. Refuse substitutes. —Ad.

Memorial Day Patriotism Lesson
By Gen. I. R. Sherwood
Civil War Veterans: America's Old-Fashioned Congressman
Memorial Day is observed in the north on May 30 and on varying dates in the south. But the spirit is the same everywhere—a day set aside out of respect for the soldiers and sailors of the republic.
The greatest benefit to be derived from Memorial Day observance is the lesson of patriotism.
We learn on that day that the people of the republic do not forget and we feel certain that they never will forget the men who fought and died for one and only one purpose—THE PRESERVATION OF THE NATION.

CUBS BEAT PITTSBURGH

Vic Kenne Pitches Good Ball For National League Team

Chicago, May 30.—Vic Kenne pitched pretty ball for the Chicago Cubs yesterday against the Pittsburgh Pirates, and the Cubs took the game, 5 to 2. Chicago hit Morrison opportunely behind bases on balls.

Boston made it three out of four from Philadelphia, taking the game 5 to 4. Manager Fletcher of Philadelphia was put off the field. McInnis' hand was injured on the second inning and Huggitt replaced him.

In the Americans Detroit took a long contest from the St. Louis Browns, played in Detroit on a chilly day. The score was 13 to 7, and the Tigers used two pitchers while the Browns used five. The game stretched over 2 hours and 44 minutes. St. Louis pitchers gave five bases on balls, hit one batsman, made on wild pitch and one balk.

HURTS FATAL TO VETERAN

Crushed Under Hoofs of a Runaway Team

Valley City, N. D., May 30.—Crushed beneath the hoofs of a runaway team and the wheels of a load of hay, Edward, 28-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tim Ward, of this city, fought off death, which he had come face to face with dozens of times on the battlefields of France while serving with the 90th division during the World War, passed away last night's greatest battle of all, with internal injuries sustained on Monday afternoon.

Edward, in company with his brother John, had loaded two hay racks with hay and were passing through the farm yard of Stephen Noyon, 17 miles north of the city. The boys alighted from their loads to stop in the Noyon farm yard for a few minutes. Edward standing between the two loads. One team was directly back of the other and, for some unknown reason, the back team started running. The unfortunate man followed the leading team as far as a gate where he realized he must let go or be crushed against one of the gate posts.

Not realizing that the other team was rushing down upon him and before he could escape being hit, the horses trampled him to the ground, the wagon passing over his body. Rushed into the Noyon home where he was given first aid. A young man appeared not to be suffering any serious injuries. On Tuesday morning, however, it was evident that he suffered from internal injuries and the attending physician, Dr. J. Van Houten, done everything possible to relieve the condition. The result of the accident, Edward appeared to be in great pain on Tuesday and at 7 o'clock yesterday morning passed away.

Besides a wife and infant son, the deceased leaves to mourn his untimely death, two brothers and one sister together with his parents.

of the International Justice, with certain conditions. The suggestion has already had my approval on that stand. I should not oppose other reservations, but any material changes which would not probably receive the consent of the many other nations, would be impracticable.

Must Have Broad View
"Only one conclusion appears to me possible. We shall not promote our welfare by a narrow and short-sighted policy."

"That action which in the long run is for the advantage of the individual, as it is for the support of our union, is best summed up in a single word—renunciation. It is only by surrendering a certain amount of our liberty, only by taking on new duties and assuming new obligations, that we make that progress which we characterize as civilization. It is only in like manner that citizens and the state can maintain our federal union and become partakers of its glory. That is the answer to every herald of discontent, and to every preacher of destruction. While this is understood, American institutions and the American union are secure."

"It must be remembered that our Republic was organized to avoid and discourage war, and to promote and establish peace. It is the leading characteristic of our national holidays that they are days of peace. The ways of our people are the ways of peace. They naturally seek ways to make peace more secure."

Not Counting Disaster

"It is not to be inferred that it would be anything less than counting national disaster to leave our country barren of defense. Human nature is a very constant quality. While there is justification for hoping and believing that we are moving towards perfection, it would be idle and absurd to assume that we have already reached it. We cannot disregard history. There have been and will be domestic disorders. There have been and will be tendencies of one nation to encroach on another. I believe in the maintenance of an army and navy, not for aggression, but for defense, but I am opposed to every kind of military aggrandizement and to all forms of competitive armament. The ideal would be for nations to become parties to mutual covenants limiting their military establishment and making it obvious that they are not maintained to menace each other. This ideal should be made practical as fast as possible."

Not a Peril

"While there are those who think we would be exposed to peril by adhering to this court I am unable to attach great weight to their arguments. Whatever differences, whatever perils exist for us in the world will come anyway whether we oppose or support the court. I am one of those who believe we would be safer and that we would be meeting our duties better by supporting it and making every possible use of it. I feel confident that such action would make a greater America, that it would be productive of a higher and finer national spirit and a more complete national life.

"It is these two thoughts of union and peace which appear to me to be especially appropriate for our consideration of this day. Like all else in human experience they are not things which can be set upon and have an independent existence. They exist by reason of the concrete actions of men and women."

A Greater Country

"Here on this wooded eminence, overlooking the capital of the country for which they fought, many of their repose, officers of high rank and privates mingling in a common dust, holding the common veneration of a grateful people. The heroes of other wars lie with them and in a great place of pre-eminence lies one whose identity is unknown, save that he was a soldier of this Republic who thought that its ideals, its institutions, its liberties might be perpetuated among men. A grateful country holds all these services as her most priceless heritage to be cherished for evermore."

"We can testify to those opinions, not by our words but by our action. Our country cannot exist on the renunciation of the heroic souls of the past. Public service, from the action of the humblest voter to the most exalted office, cannot be made more matter of hire and salary. The supporters of our institutions must be inspired by a more dominant motive than a conviction that their actions are going to be profitable. We cannot lower our standards to what we think will pay, but we must raise them to what we think is right."

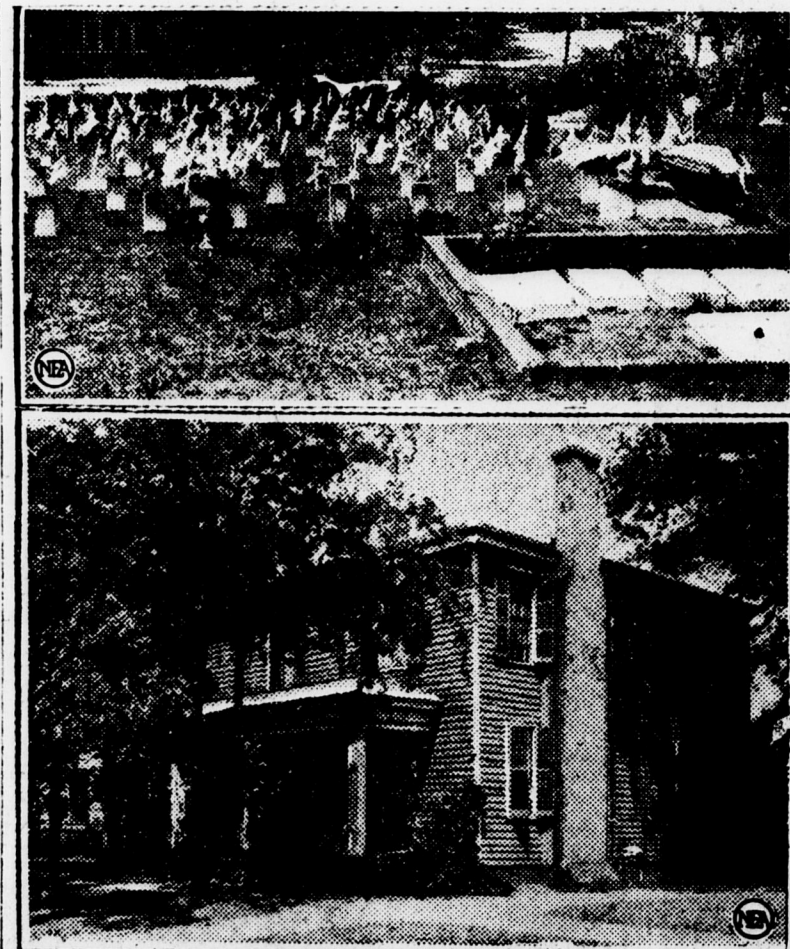

BONUS SERVICE PLAN IS TOLD

New Department Is Created By Director Hines

The creation of an Adjusted Compensation Service, with Major O. W. Clark in charge, is announced by General Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans Bureau. The new Service will handle all the duties falling on the Veterans Bureau as the result of the passing of the Adjusted Compensation Act. It will be charged with issuing the adjusted service certificates and making the cash payments called for by that act.

Director Hines has estimated that $127,000,000 will be expended by the Veterans Bureau under the act.

HERE'S WHERE MEMORIAL DAY CUSTOM ORIGINATED

TOP: CEMETERY AT COLUMBUS, GA., WHERE FIRST MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES WERE HELD. BOTTOM: HOUSE WHERE FIRST MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION WAS FORMED.

The nation-wide custom of setting aside one day in the year for decorating the graves of the soldier dead originated among a little group of women who met at the home of Mrs. John Tyler in Columbus, Ga., on April 26, 1866.

The first Ladies' Memorial Association was organized at this meeting, and the women went from Mrs. Tyler's home to Linwood Cemetery, in Columbus, where the original Memorial Day exercises were held. The women pledged themselves to observe the ceremony on the same date every year and within a few years the custom had spread throughout the north and south.

Four southern states still recognize April 26 as "Confederate Memorial Day," while the northern states celebrate "Memorial Day" on May 30 as the date when most of the spring flowers are in bloom.

PULL TOGETHER SPIRIT IS BIG NEED OF STATE

M. M. Goodwill of Northern Pacific Advocates North Dakota "Daily Half Dozen"

COOPERATION IMPORTANT

North Dakota citizens must pull together, for their own benefit and for the benefit of their state, M. M. Goodwill, assistant to the vice-president, Northern Pacific Railway, told the North Dakota Retail Merchants here yesterday.

He urged a "daily half-dozen" for North Dakotans as follows: Optimism, Confidence, Enthusiasm, Common Sense, Hard Work and Cooperation. Speaking on cooperation he said:

"Never was cooperation more essential than now. All progress has sprung from it. Cooperation has displaced the prairie schooner by the steel train; it has displaced the canoe by the ocean liner; it has displaced the scythe and the sickle by the reaper and binder; it has displaced the town crier by the daily newspaper. The Northwest has been developed by cooperation and its future development depends upon the same kind of team work. Business men cannot pull one way and farmers another, nothing can be gained by attacking and destroying railroads or any other vital industry. Farming, transportation, business, working together, create prosperity and progress."

"Under the head of cooperative advertising, many suggestions may be made. I would like to urge all communities to issue, and have for sale, attractive picture postal cards, which tourists, visitors and home people can mail out to the world. Today in North Dakota there are very few mailing cards of this kind, which do the state justice, which really represent favorable publicity. The mailing card situation is easy to work out, with the help of our local photographers, professional or amateur, plus the application of a state standard or uniformity of design."

Mr. Goodwill also proposed plans

How many chances of fire in your home?

You don't know. But there are a great many chances—too many with which to gamble. Why not let the insurance company take the risk? Insurance costs but a very little and if fire comes, your policy may mean your salvation. There is no better protection than the sound indemnity of dependable fire insurance.

Let this agency tell you about it. You will be under no obligation. Better insure in the Hartford Fire Insurance Company.

for cooperative advertising with radio, letter inserts, envelope stickers, moving pictures and public meetings.

"Your Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Commercial and other clubs can take lessons from pioneers," he said. "Why don't you bring a few of the early settlers from your town into one of your meetings some day to tell you the inspiring story of early days in this state and the story of their own successes. Much can be learned from the past. We owe more than we can repay to our pioneers."

CITY'S FIRE FUND GAINS

Will Receive $1,735.18 From Tax Distribution

The state's auditor's office will distribute $40,320.95 to 334 fire departments of state, from the fund created by a levy of two percent tax on foreign fire insurance companies, according to D. C. Poindexter, state auditor. The tax is returned to cities in proportion to premium receipts from them. Payments will include Fargo $6,988.33; Grand Forks $2,547.33; Minot $2,144.33; Bismarck $1,735.18; Jamestown $1,472.88; Devils Lake $1,231.28; Valley City $865.22; Mandan $852.22.

The distribution is made each year to organized fire departments, and is an aid in maintenance of the departments in many towns.

Constipation is ruinous to children—keep yours healthy with Kellogg's Bran

Constipation undermines a child's health. It saps his energy and makes him listless. It can lead to more than 40 other serious diseases. Mothers should take immediate steps to remove, safely and surely, the dangerous poisons from his system.

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL bran—brings permanent relief. Nothing but ALL Bran can be 100 per cent effective. That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is universally recommended by doctors. They know it brings results.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to give permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Kellogg's Bran acts on the intestines exactly as nature acts. It sweeps and cleans and purifies them. It makes them function naturally and regularly. It allows you to discontinue forever the use of harmful, habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is a delightful surprise to the taste—particularly if one has tried ordinary unpalatable bran. Kellogg's Bran has a delicious, crisp, nut-like flavor—an exclusive flavor. It is most enjoyable with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals or cooked with hot cereals. Try it in bread, muffins, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Have your children eat it regularly.—two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Kellogg's Bran is made at Battle Creek and sold at all grocers. It is served in individual packages by the leading hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant.
